In 1786 Sir William Jones, a British judge serving in India, made a discovery that transformed knowledge about prehistory and began the formal study of historical linguistics. Turning his spare time towards the study of Sanskrit, the ancient language from which the predominant languages of the South Asian subcontinent derive, Jones discovered that Sanskrit shares features of grammar and vocabulary with Latin and ancient Greek to an extent inexplicable by sheer coincidence. His interest further aroused, he then examined the early Germanic language called "Gothic", the ancient Celtic languages of Europe, and Old Persian, and found that they, too, exhibited marked similarities to Sanskrit. He concluded that all these languages must have evolved from a common but now-extinct linguistic source. In the early nineteenth century, both this ancient language and the later languages that derived from it, were labelled "Indo-European," reflecting their wide distribution from India and Ireland.

57. One can conclude from the passage that Gothic ----.

- A) originally derived from Latin and had the same grammatical features
- B) had no relationship whatsoever with Sanskrit and other languages
- C) was an old language which was spoken throughout Europe, including Ireland
- D) was the only language in which Sir William Jones took a special interest
- E) was the language spoken by early Germanic peoples

58. It is pointed out in the passage that Sanskrit ----.

- A) is the only language which is widely spoken among the peoples of South Asia
- B) and other Indo-European languages are closely related with each other
- C) was first studied by Sir William Jones in the eighteenth century
- D) was the most ancient language from which Latin and Greek have evolved
- E) has a grammatical structure which is entirely different from that of Old Persian

59. As one understands from the passage, Sir William Jones ----.

- A) made fundamental changes in the judicial system of eighteenth-century India
- B) was a professional linguist and spent his time in India by the study of Sanskrit
- C) rejected the view that the European Celtic languages derived from a common source
- D) studied Sanskrit only when he was free from his judicial responsibilities
- E) was very interested in the prehistory of India and made several discoveries

60. According to the passage, the beginnings of historical linguistics ----.

The Stone Age is, in fact, divided into various stages. Dominating the period is the Palaeolithic Age, which most anthropologists would extend down to roughly 11,000 B.C. Within the Stone Age in general, however, scholars also speak of an Upper Palaeolithic Era, beginning around 40,000 B.C. They draw attention to some significant changes in human behaviour around this date, including the appearance of sophisticated cave paintings, and evidence of religious ideas. Humans also began producing the most effective, finely crafted tools such as fishhooks, arrowheads, and sewing needles made from organic materials, such as wood or animal bone. Yet, despite these important developments, the basic patterns of human life changed little during this era. Virtually all human societies before 11,000 B.C. consisted of small bands of hunter-gatherers that moved incessantly in search of food. Because they could not stay in any one location for long, these groups left no continuous archaeological record whereby we might trace the development of their culture. Our knowledge of them is, therefore, very limited.

61. It is stressed in the passage that, during the Upper Palaeolithic Era, ----.

- A) there were no settled human communities but groups of wandering hunter-gatherers
- B) humans practised different forms of art but preferred to specialize in cave painting
- C) hunter-gatherers had plenty of food whereby they were able to feed themselves easily
- D) bands of hunter-gatherers produced different kinds of tools whereby the development of culture can be traced
- E) there appeared new and most developed cultures, which have been brought to light through archaeological excavations

62. According to the passage, the Stone Age ----.

- A) was, according to archaeologists, the most sophisticated and developed period of early human history
- B) and the cultures of the period have been fully revealed by archaeologists
- C) is generally known as the Upper Palaeolithic Era, during which man learned how to produce food
- D) is not one continuous period but consists of different eras
- E) is generally dated to 11,000 B.C. and has always been a serious academic concern among anthropologists

63. It is suggested in the passage that humans ----.

- A) in the Stone Age were very skilled and far advanced in making tools for their farming needs
- B) seem to have first developed their religious ideas during the Upper Palaeolithic Era
- C) in the Upper Palaeolithic Era knew how to defend themselves when they were attacked by hunter-gatherers
- D) in the Palaeolithic Age were skilled not only in hunting but also in different kinds of cloth-making
- E) in the Stone Age had no notion of religion and, therefore, did not know how to worship

64. It is pointed out in the passage that, with the Upper Palaeolithic Era beginning around 40,000 B.C., ----.

- A) most human societies worshipped various gods
- B) cave painting became very popular among hunter-gatherers
- C) fully organized human societies began to appear
- D) human beings ceased to be hunter-gatherers
- E) man entered a new period of important developments

By the end of the twentieth century, East Asia had become a centre of industrial and manufacturing production. Especially China began to establish commercial ties with the West in the 1970s and became the world's leading heavy industrial producer by the year 2000. Its state-owned companies acquired contracts from Western firms to produce products cheaply and in bulk, for sale back to home markets in the United States and Europe. Moreover, the Chinese government established semicapitalist commercial zones around major port cities like Shanghai. These commercial zones were intended to encourage massive foreign investment on terms that left China a favourable balance of trade for its huge volume of cheap exports. Yet, in practice, they enjoyed only mixed success. Problems in farming and a looming energy crisis hampered prosperity and economic growth, but Hong Kong only managed to maintain its traditional economic and cultural ties with the rest of the world. However, in recent years, China has overcome most of these problems and radically upgraded its economic performance.

65. The passage is mainly concerned with ----.

- A) the extent and complexity of problems in Chinese agriculture
- B) the variety and volume of Western investments in China in the 1970s
- C) Hong Kong's economic prosperity and its impact on social life in the city
- D) China's economic development and performance since the last century
- E) the improvement of China's balance of trade since the 1970s

66. It is claimed in the passage that China's commercial zones ----.

- A) absolutely provided China with a huge volume of foreign investment
- B) were not as successful as had been originally intended
- C) were solely located around Shanghai and Hong Kong
- D) have been the most efficient ones throughout East Asia
- E) were originally intended for state-owned companies

67. It is pointed out in the passage that Western firms ----.

- A) made contracts with Chinese companies because of favourable production conditions in China
- B) made huge investments in commercial zones, but they failed to make any profit
- C) established closer commercial ties with China to benefit from cheap exports
- D) were mainly concentrated in Hong Kong, since it was a major port city
- E) cooperated with China in order to upgrade its economic performance

68. It is stated in the passage that Hong Kong ----.

- A) was the major exporter of cheap products to the United States and Europe
- B) contributed enormously to the emergence of China as an economic power in East Asia
- C) was not affected at all by the decline of prosperity and economic growth in the rest of China
- D) took immediate measures to prevent the looming energy crisis in the area
- E) was a major centre of industrial and manufacturing production in China in the 1970s

In 1914, Europe had built a seemingly stable peace. Through the complex negotiations of great power geopolitics, Europe had settled into two systems of alliance: the Allied Powers which consisted of Britain, France and Russia, and the Central Powers that included Germany, Austria, and Italy. Within this balance of power, the nations of Europe challenged one another for economic, military, and imperial advantage. The rivalry for colonies abroad accompanied a fierce arms race at home, where military leaders assumed that superior technology and larger armies would result in a quick victory in a European war. Indeed, in the prevailing atmosphere of international suspicion, such a war seemed likely to many of Europe's political and military leaders. Yet none of them predicted that the war would break out so soon. Nor did many expect that the assassination in June 1914 of the Austrian archduke and his wife would spark off that war, which engulfed all of Europe in just over a month's time.

69. It is suggested in the passage that, when the Austrian archduke and his wife were assassinated in June 1914, ----.

- A) the European balance of power was not affected by this incident, and the European peace was maintained
- B) the British government immediately began negotiations for an alliance with France and Russia
- C) Austria turned to Germany and Italy for an alliance and declared war on Britain and France
- D) most European leaders did not think that this incident would soon lead to a war
- E) many European leaders believed that this was a plot of the Allied Powers against the Central Powers

70. It is pointed out in the passage that, while the European powers were competing with each other for colonization overseas, ----.

- A) their main concern was how to benefit from the geopolitical importance of their colonies
- B) they were also involved in an escalating process of rearmament
- C) they held the view that technological superiority was essential for the exploitation of their colonies
- D) they held various negotiations for the prevention of a possible war that would destroy Europe
- E) it seemed to many politicians that international problems could be solved through negotiations

71. The writer asserts in the passage that the peace in Europe in 1914 ----.

- A) was essentially the achievement of political and military leaders
- B) was maintained efficiently by the Allied Powers
- C) mainly depended on superior technology and very strong armies
- D) seemed a lasting one, but it was, in fact, fragile
- E) was not affected at all by the assassination of the Austrian archduke

72. According to the passage, although Europe had achieved a balance of power by 1914, ----.

- A) Germany, Austria and Italy continued their efforts to build very large armies and began to challenge the Allied Powers
- B) European leaders encouraged the development of advanced technologies for a comprehensive victory
- C) this did not prevent the European nations from challenging each other for various advantages
- D) military leaders strongly argued that larger armies were needed in order to protect the colonies overseas
- E) political leaders were extremely suspicious of military leaders and, therefore, did their best to prevent a war

Since 1993, China has invested in more than fifty oil and gas projects in some thirty nations. In particular, China has focused on acquisitions and partnerships in Sudan and Iran. In Sudan alone, China has reportedly spent $15 billion developing oil fields. In the meantime, China has also begun to use its military to protect its oil investments abroad. Reportedly, troops disguised as oil workers patrol Chinese oil infrastructure in Sudan. Moreover, in recent years, China has strengthened its military presence in the oil-and-gas-rich parts of the South China Sea, over which sovereignty is still disputed. Perhaps most significant in the short term is China's relationship with Iran. With Saudi Arabia and Iraq clearly within the American sphere of influence, China has been steadily courting Tehran and aims to become the biggest buyer of Iranian oil. In return for oil, China has supplied Iran not only with conventional weapons but also with technology and materials that can be used for the manufacturing of nuclear weapons.

73. It is claimed in the passage that the Chinese oil workers in Sudan ----.

- A) have increased steadily because China has acquired many oil and gas fields in this country
- B) are, in fact, military personnel in disguise, employed to protect the Chinese oil investments in this country
- C) have been employed in over fifty oil and gas projects, for which China has already spent billions of dollars
- D) have been extremely efficient and built the extensive oil infrastructure that this country has
- E) mostly prefer to work for the companies that China has set up in this country for partnership in oil and gas projects

74. One learns from the passage that there are ----.

- A) many Chinese workers already employed in nearly thirty nations
- B) several Chinese companies involved in oil projects in the South China Sea
- C) a number of economic issues that China faces in the South China Sea
- D) many oil fields in Iran that have been developed by China
- E) areas in the South China Sea which are rich in oil and gas

75. One understands from the passage that, just as the United States maintains its dominant position in Saudi Arabia and Iraq, so China ----.

- A) has made efforts to develop its partnership with Iranian oil companies
- B) is resolved to increase its military presence in some thirty countries
- C) has sought to establish closer economic relations with Iran
- D) has decided to invest heavily in Iran's various oil and gas projects
- E) tries hard to persuade Iran to become an ally in the region

76. It is clear from the passage that Iran's nuclear technology ----.

- A) has been aided by China through its logistical support
- B) is not so advanced and efficient as that of China
- C) has been strongly criticized by the United States
- D) has been financed through its oil exports to a number of countries
- E) can develop fully even though China is not willing to cooperate

The term “imperialism” means the process of extending one nation’s control over another; it is a process that takes many forms. Historians distinguish between “formal imperialism” and “informal imperialism.” Formal imperialism is colonialism, and it was exercised by the Europeans in the past mainly by direct rule: the colonizing nations annexed territories outright and established their own governments to subjugate and administer the peoples of these territories. Sometimes formal imperialism was exercised through indirect rule: the conquering nations reached agreements with native leaders and governed them. There was no single practice of colonial management, and resistance from the natives forced colonial powers to shift strategies frequently. As for “informal imperialism,” it refers to a more subtle and less visible exercise of power, in which the stronger nation allows the weaker one to maintain its independence while reducing its sovereignty. For the Europeans in the past, informal imperialism took the form of carving out zones of European sovereignty and privilege, such as treaty ports, within other countries. Essentially it meant using European economic, political, and cultural power to get advantageous treaties or terms of trade. Informal imperialism was not only common, it played an even more fundamental role in shaping global power relations in the 18th and 19th centuries.

77. It is asserted in the passage that, in the past, informal imperialism ----.

- A) enabled the Europeans to conquer the lands of other peoples and face no resistance
- B) was preferred by the natives who were involved in free trade with the European nations
- C) was far more effective than formal imperialism in the development of power relations in the world
- D) was commonly practised by the Europeans because it allowed them to make use of various strategies
- E) provided the European nations with an economic power which enabled them to rule the rest of the world

78. According to the passage, although the practice of imperialism may be varied, ----.

- A) native peoples in the European colonies were always in favour of formal imperialism
- B) it was formal imperialism in the past which most suited the Europeans for their trade overseas
- C) the European nations followed a common strategy in the past in order to set up colonies in other parts of the world
- D) for historians, it is mainly divided into “formal” and “informal” imperialism
- E) in the 18th and 19th centuries the European nations gave up formal imperialism because of native resistance

79. As one understands from the passage, in informal imperialism, ----.

- A) the colonizing nations sign treaties with native governments to help them solve economic problems
- B) the independence of the weaker nation is respected by the colonizing nation
- C) the sovereignty of the colonized nation is totally disregarded by the colonizing power
- D) the management of the ports in a country is undertaken by economically stronger nations
- E) native governments are granted certain privileges and political powers by stronger nations

80. It is clear that the passage ----.

- A) gives an account of the historical reasons why formal imperialism in the past was more widely practised than informal imperialism
- B) is a detailed account of how the Europeans colonized other peoples in the 18th and 19th centuries
- C) is mainly concerned with the process of resistance that colonial peoples put up against the European nations
- D) is a full description of the economic and cultural privileges which, in the past, the Europeans got from native governments
- E) theoretically explains imperialism and refers to the European practice of it in the past
